Memoir Writing Workshop

Do you wish your parents and grandparents had told you more about their lives? The stories and poems about your life that you will write in our memoir workshop could be legacies for your own children and grandchildren. Maybe you just want to look back through time and acknowledge your experience of history. All perspectives are welcomed. We started in October, but you don't have to have been there from the beginning to join this stand-alone session. We will take a trip down memory lane through short writing and listening exercises. We will also look at some poems and short pieces by other writers for inspiration.

Barbara Janoff Ph.D. is an associate professor at the Fashion Institute of Technology, State University of New York in Manhattan, where she teaches writing and literature. Her poetry and essays have appeared in a number of journals, including Communication Arts, Women's Work: TheJournal of the Columbia College Women's Center and the Berkshire Review.
